Our Impact

Resilient Virginia is a nonprofit dedicated to helping communities across the state prepare for climate, natural, and human-made challenges. Since 2014, we've worked to educate and empower local leaders to enhance the safety, well-being, and resilience of the places where people live, work, and thrive.

Where We Work: Our work touches the lives of every Virginian across a dynamic Commonwealth that spans coastal areas, farmlands, and mountainous regions.

What We Do: We bring people and organizations together across Virginia to tackle big challenges like natural disasters, climate change, and other risks to our communities. We create strong collaborations by connecting people and organizations that typically work separately. Working together we build partnerships by helping share ideas, and creating smart plans for a safer, stronger future. Our goal is to help good ideas grow, reach more people, and make a positive difference in our communities.

How We Do It: Resilient Virginia helps communities prepare for and bounce back from challenges like extreme weather or other disruptions. We offer straightforward information and guidance to help towns and cities make smart plans for the future. We also work directly with local governments and organizations to help create and carry out these plans. With the support of grants, sponsors, and partnerships, we team up with local groups and residents to turn ideas into real, on-the-ground actions that make communities stronger and more prepared.

Why We Do It (the way we do): Progress and meaningful impact rarely come from isolated efforts. True success often requires the input, support, and collaboration of a group. Whether it's in a team, community, or larger societal context, collective effort amplifies the outcomes. It is through this collective effort that Virginia's communities will become resilient.

We envision a more resilient Virginia!

Resilience is the capacity to anticipate, absorb, adapt to, and recover from disruptions - while maintaining core functions and thriving over time.

Our mission is to accelerate resiliency planning in communities across the Commonwealth.

The Rising Challenge

Communities today are on the front lines—facing rising threats from extreme weather and unpredictable climate shifts.

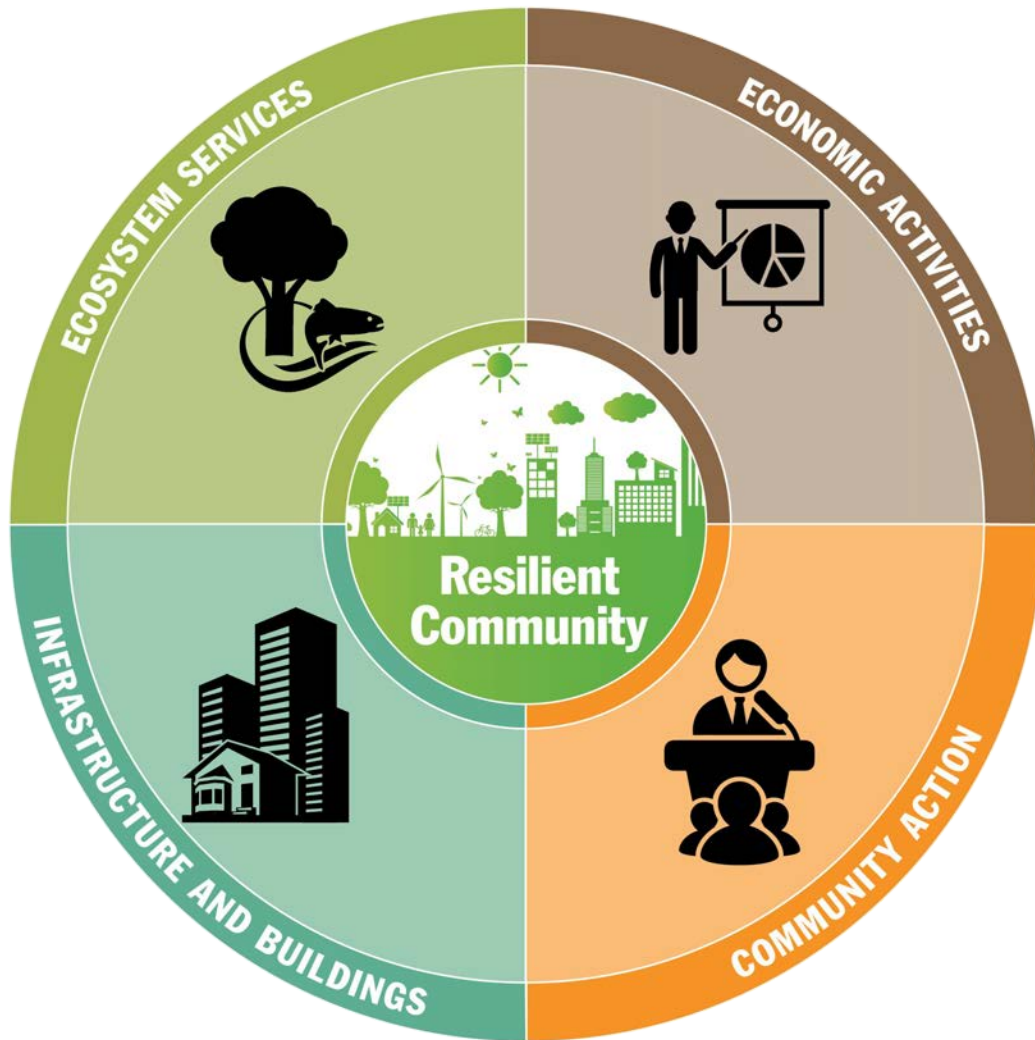

These events don't act alone.

They amplify existing stresses—economic, environmental, health-related, and social.

To survive, adapt, and thrive in this shifting landscape, communities must:

- Identify their risks
- Address their vulnerabilities
- Prepare for future challenges

This is how we build lasting resilience—proactively, together, and with purpose.
